AGREEMENT REACHED ON TVA PAYMENTS

MSU Groups To Campaign For Easter Seals

Two Murray State University student groups—Alpha Kappa Psi professional business fraternity and the Women's Student Government Association—have undertaken special projects in the annual Calloway County Easter Seal campaign.

Some 30 members of the business fraternity will man roadblocks from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., Saturday and Sunday to collect donations from motorists. About six intersections in Murray will be covered, according to Dave Cross, Alpha Kappa Psi president.

A house-to-house solicitation of donations in Murray will be conducted by members of the WSGA on Tuesday from 4 to 6 p. m. Sydney Cash, a WSGA representative, said approximately 120 women will work in that effort.

Both projects are part of the campaign planned by Mrs. Martha Crafton, special events chairman for Calloway County.

M. O. Wraether, who is serving as Calloway County Easter Seal chairman for the fourth consecutive year, praised the willingness of the students to devote their time and energy to the campaign.

"Having the kind of cooperation and spirit shown by these students in the Easter Seal campaign makes it doubly satisfying to me," he said. "No cause is more worthy than that of helping crippled children—and I am proud of the willingness of these young people to be involved."

The 47-year-old Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., provides therapies, special education, hospitalization, recreation, camping, and other services.

Dr. Harry M. Sparks, president of Murray State University and state Easter Seal campaign chairman this year, said about 4,000 Kentuckians received benefits through the program last year.

The campaign in Kentucky will extend through Easter Sunday, March 29.

Seen & Heard Around Murray

The preacher told his organist when I say "All of you who want to contribute $100 toward the building fund please stand," you play some appropriate music. "Like what?" asked the organist.

"Like the Star Spangled Banner," said the preacher.

The Murray High-Austin Elementary campus contains 1,000 pupils, twice too many for the one block area. Carter has 12 rooms—with 360 pupils. The playground was designed for a six room school. Robertson School has 16 teachers and 458 children.

Since the ground has dried out some, we walked around to the south side of the house Thursday to see how the Jonquills are doing. Bless Pat, if they are not up six or eight inches with

Concession Stand Is Damaged At City Park

Fire damaged the electric grill, bun warmer, and some shelves in the concession stand for the Pony League baseball field at the City Park on Thursday at 1:55 p.m.

The Murray Fire Department was called to the scene and used the booster to extinguish the flames. The firemen were back at the station by 2:08 p.m.

GETTING ACQUAINTED—Two Murray State University students involved in the Calloway County Easter Seal campaign get acquainted with four-year-old Scott Bland, one of the children who benefits from services provided by the Kentucky Easter Seal Society. Shown with Scott are David Cross, a senior from Bethesda, Md., and president of Alpha Psi, and Sydney Cash, a freshman from Mayfield and a representative of the Women's Student Government Association. Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pat Bland of 1710 Keeneland Drive in Murray.

Financial Disclosure Bill Approved In House Thursday

By CHARLES PENTECOST
FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)—Kentucky's first financial disclosure bill for legislators and other officers was approved 37-2 in the state House of Representatives Thursday after surviving a motion to table it. The measure now goes to the state Senate.

Rep. Peter Conn, D-Louisville, sponsor of one of two original financial disclosure bills introduced in the House, warned that placing the bill, a state government committee substitute, on the clerk's desk would kill it for the session.

Twenty bills were passed Thursday in a marathon three-hour session in the House. The lower chamber reconvenes at 1 p.m. EST today.

The State Government Committee substitute for HB 23 was hammered out from provisions of bills introduced by Conn and Rep. Gross C. Lindsay, D-Henderson.

It broadens the original bills to include other officials in addition to members of the General Assembly. Affected by the bill would be official elected statewide, judges and the state court of appeals, circuit judges, Commonwealth's attorneys and all candidates for the offices as well as some state department heads.

Those covered by the bill must list with the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance simple descriptions of their financial interests not amounts in the form of stocks, bonds, partnerships, real estate, equity or creditor interests.

Exempt would be bank accounts, savings and loan association credit union accounts and equity interests valued at less than $1,000 and income from stock dividends or bond interest.

The required information must be filed with the registry of election finance by March 15 of each year.

Only activities subject to the jurisdiction of a state regulatory agency or activities with a legislative interest would be covered.

The motion to place the substitute bill on the clerk's desk was made by Rep. Tom Ray, D-Louisville, who termed it "ambiguous and unclear" in floor remarks. The motion was defeated, 61-13.

Also drawing heavy fire before its passage was a bill allowing persons whose driver's licenses have been revoked or suspended to obtain a one-year occupational license if it is required for them to earn a living. The bill passed, 50-39.

House minority leader W. Harold DeMarcus, R-Stanford, called the bill "an attempt to weaken the drunk-driving laws" of the state.

A bill authorizing a fixed allowance of up to $25 a day for state officials traveling outside Kentucky was sidetracked for a time when Rep. Ralph Mitchell, D-Shelbyville, asked DeMarcus how many state employees would be discharged if the bill were passed.

Mitchell's motion to table the bill was withdrawn, and it later passed, 80-1. Before the vote, Mitchell said jokingly the figure given him by DeMarcus, "was the exact number of employees that I anticipated would be discharged."

Also passed Thursday was a bill restricting the manner of recruitment and employment of personnel to replace employees involved in labor disputes. It was approved by a vote of 54-19.

SB 65, the "fair" plan to guarantee the right of home-owners to purchase property insurance even in high risk areas where disorders have occurred, passed the lower chamber, 87-0.

It now goes to Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

Twelve of the 20 bills passed Thursday by the House were approved unanimously.

They included SB 132, permitting the pre-filing of bills prior to legislative sessions, approved 85-0.

Golden Voices Will Be Featured Sunday

The Golden Voices of Paris, Tenn., with their manager-narrator, J. H. Hardin, will present the gospel in songs and sentences at the Douglas High OEO building on Sunday, March 1, at three p.m.

Everyone is urged to attend this program on Sunday, according to Opal Tharpe

LBL Eagle Tour Set For Saturday

Land Between the Lakes officials announced today that there will be a guided tour to look for eagles Saturday, February 28. The tour, which is open to the public, will begin at 7:30 a. m. at Center Station in the Conservation Education Center and will end at 11:00 a. m. "Many visitors have expressed a keen interest in the bald eagles that visit us during the winter, and we are hopeful that this guided tour will give more people an opportunity to see these magnificent birds," said Robert M. Hayes, Director of Land Between the Lakes.

Last Saturday 44 eagles were counted in Land Between the Lakes as a part of the Mississippi Valley Midwinter Bald Eagle Count. The official count listed 43 bald eagles and 1 golden eagle. Most of the birds were spotted along the quiet coves of Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley. Several eagles have been seen in the area this week.

Those who are interested in participating in the guided tour Saturday morning should bring hiking shoes or boots and binoculars, if available. Center Station is located just above Hematite Lake near Honker Lake.

Third Session School Of World Outreach Is Planned Here Sunday

Members of 13 congregations (10 white and three black; 12 Protestant and one Catholic) will meet Sunday evening at 5:30 in First United Methodist Church for the 3rd session of the School of World Outreach.

Adults, Senior Highs, Junior Highs and children are studying the theme "Reconciliation. In A Broken World" in their various age groups. Participants are attempting to be part of the answer, not part of the problems that divide our world, a spokesman said.

Discussion leaders of the five adult groups include: Rev. Stephen Mazak, Jr., and Judy Cole; Charles Homma; and Pete Rutledge. Pete Ryan and Jim Stocks, Don Brock and Sarah Weatherly, and Bailey Gore Ron and Mary Breshear are leaders of Senior Highs. Junior High leaders are Rev. Charles Beth Broach, Mrs. Pete Rutledge and Sarah Cunningham are leaders for the Juniors. Primary leaders are Mrs. Clegg Austin and Mrs. Gayle Egner. Leaders of the Kindergarten and Nursery groups are being shared by participating congregations.

There will be two more sessions of the School, next Sunday and March 8th. Sessions begin at 5:30 with a sack lunch. Discussion and study groups begin at 6:00 and conclude at 7:30.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

The Calloway County Teachers Association would like to express their appreciation to Mr. Fred Schultz, Mrs. C. C. Lowery, Mr. Z. C. Enix, Mrs. Mary Jane Littleton, and Mr. Charlie Lassiter who went to Frankfort in our behalf to meet with Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford.

They met with him approximately thirty minutes and discussed the current educational issues. He expressed his willingness to work with teachers and emphasized that there might be a "silver lining to the cloud" if certain developments take place.

Sincerely,
Bob Allen, President

Fireworks Expected In Senate Today Over Slow Time Measure

By GLEN CARPENTER
FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)—The scene was set for fireworks on the floor of the state Senate today when a move was expected to try to take a "slow time" bill away from the committee where it has been bottled up since Jan. 9.

The expected action comes on the heels of Thursday's explosive two-hour debate over passage of a Sunday closing law bill and prior to next week's scheduled votes on bail bond and bingo legislation.

Sen. Edwin Freeman, D-Harrodsburg, submitted a discharge petition Thursday bearing his name and the four others required by Senate rules to force the time bill to the floor. It is currently lodged in the eight-member State Government Committee where it is reported the members are 4-4 over the bill.

Under the rules, five senators must sign a discharge petition and at least 20 senators, or a simple majority, must then vote to take a bill away from a committee. It is then given two readings, goes to the rules committee which then posts it for possible passage. If a bill gets 20 votes to get out of committee it is also virtually assured passage.

The measure, Senate Bill No. 27, would exempt Kentucky from provisions of the 1966 Uniform Time Act, meaning the state would remain on standard time the year around rather than go on daylight saving time from the end of April through October.

When the bill was introduced, it bore the signatures of 16 senators as sponsors.

Virtually the same bill was defeated in 1968 in the Senate by a 20-19 vote. It passed the House.

Sen. Wilson, Palmert, D-Cynthiana, state Government Committee chairman, had said he wanted to wait until the House

Car On Haulway Is Reported Damaged At Highway Intersection

One car on a haulway was reported damaged in an accident at the intersection of U.S. Highway 641 North and the Highway 121 Bypass, according to the report filed Thursday at 8:05 p.m. by the Murray Police Department.

The police report said the car was on the top of the haulway, a 1968 Chevrolet tractor-trailer owned by Garland Used Cars, South 4th Street, and driven by William L. Birdsong, Murray Route Six.

The guy wire was reported broken that was holding the signal in place at the 641 and 121 bypass and had let the light drop down, according to the police report. The light struck the front car on top of the trailer causing damage to the front end as it went through the intersection, according to the police report.

In-Lieu-of-Tax Payments To Be Made At 1965 Level-Plus

Mayor Holmes Ellis last night reported to the city council that an agreement had been reached between the municipalities in Kentucky served by TVA and the Tennessee Valley Authority, as to the amount of in-lieu-of-tax payments to be made by TVA for the years 1968 and 1969.

The agreement substantially calls for TVA to make payments at about the 1965 level plus a growth factor.

At the time that property assessments were increased to 100 per cent of sale value in Kentucky, a bill was passed which called for TVA to continue to pay in-lieu-of-tax payments as of the 1965 level. This was later challenged by electric plant boards—in Glasgow, Kentucky and Paducah, Kentucky. TVA served electric plants in Kentucky were already making in-lieu-of-tax payments based on 100 per cent of book value, so when assessments were raised to 100 per cent on other property, and the tax rate dropped to one-third, electric plant board payments apparently would drop by two thirds.

Both the municipalities and the school boards receiving these payments suffered since the electric plant boards make a substantial tax payment.

The Murray Electric Plant Board and the Murray City Council have worked closely together on the problem and their relationship has been good throughout the entire litigation. The payments to the city and the school board here will be of great help since both the city and the board operate on very tight budgets.

In other business last night the council deferred the second reading of Ordinance 511 which makes North 8th Street one-way from Main to Olive going south. Dr. A. H. Kopperud appeared before the council and spoke on the possibility that the one-way street might create more problems than it would solve. The council agreed to defer the second reading on the ordinance until the next meeting.

The first reading on ordinance 512 was made. This ordinance will prevent "dead parking" of vehicles on meters in the city. It was pointed out that some cars are parked on meters all day with the owner being willing to merely pay the fifty cent fine. The ordinance will make it mandatory to "feed the meter." Mayor Ellis said the purpose of the parking meters is to keep traffic moving and to provide parking space for persons trading in the downtown stores.

The council agreed to continue the practice of letting the firm of Richardson and Trevaughn audit the books of the Murray Water & Sewer System and the Murray Natural Gas System and the firm of Shackelford, Goode and Thurman audit the books of the General Fund and the Murray Electric System.

Councilman Max Weaver was named as the council member of the Murray Electric Plant Board replacing Haron West whose term expires. This is a one year term.

A notice was read from the Murray Planning Commission reporting on action taken by the commission on February 17 on a petition by J. E. Littleton to change property at 309 North 16th Street from R-4 to B-1 classification. The commission voted unanimously to deny the petition on the grounds that this would be "spot" zoning and that there was insufficient off-street parking. The council has the authority to override the findings of the commission by a two-thirds majority, however the council saw fit not to take any action, therefore the decision of the Planning Commission stands. The business at this location is a non-conforming use.

Councilman Howard Koenan, chairman of the Special Problems was asked by Mayor Ellis to study further the dog problem in the city and to make a recommendation.

The council approved Stein

Bros. & Boyce as fiscal agents for the Murray Water & Sewer System to sell bonds to complete needed projects in the city. Their fee will be .65%.

Councilman A. B. Crass asked for council permission to upgrade one of the sanitation vehicles which is literally worn out. Crass proposed to purchase a 1962 GMC chassis for $800 from Five Points Welding and to change the compactor type body from the worn out 1962 International chassis to the GMC chassis. He figured that it would cost $280 to make the changeover. The council approved this proposal. Two new trucks are due here within weeks Crass said, and with this proposed change the system will be in far better condition to serve the public.

The council approved a motion by Councilman James Rudy Allibritten for the naming of a temporary appointment of a new fire captain by the Mayor, Fire Chief and Fire Safety Committee. Their action will be passed on at the next meeting.

Councilman Richard Tuck asked for permission for gas system personnel to attend a gas safety school. Wayne Doran, Superintendent and two employees will attend one of the two day meetings and four other employees will attend the other. One is at Owensboro March 2 and three, and the other is at Lexington March 9 and 10. This was approved.

Chief of Police James Brown announced that the new walkie-talkie radios are now in use by walking patrolmen. These men can now keep in constant contact with police headquarters.

Chief Brown's report for the period February 12 to February 25 is as follows: DWI 10, reckless driving 5, public drunkenness 7, disorderly conduct 3, shoplifting 2, disregarding stop sign 3, driving on revoked license 2, speeding 3, unnecessary noise 1, improper registration 1, illegal possession of alcohol 2, running red light 1, going wrong way on one way street 1. Accidents reported 18, improper parking tickets issued 67.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Adopting an Adult

In the mind's eye, the word "adoption" conjures up a vision of doting parents taking possession of a gurgling infant—their at last to raise as their very own child.

That is, indeed, a typical scene in an adoption court. But there is another, quite different kind of adoption. In most states it is just as lawful to adopt an adult as to adopt a child. Furthermore, in terms of legal formalities, it is even easier.

For example, it is usually not necessary to get the consent of the adult's natural parents, as it is with a child, or to go through a waiting period before the adoption becomes final.

Why would anybody want to adopt an adult? Obviously, it is not to "raise" him. In most cases, the purpose is simply to make him the heir of the adopting parent or parents.

In fact, the procedure has been attacked for just that reason. In one case a childless old man adopted three of his relatives, each one middle-aged. After the man died, several other relatives went to court to challenge the adoption.

"There is nothing humanitarian about the whole thing," they argued. "It is merely a device to cut us out of the estate leaving these three as the only heirs."

But the court ruled that even if this was true, it did not invalidate the adoption.

"This motive," said the court, "is a perfectly proper one."

Nevertheless, critics fear that the mere possibility of an adult adoption may lead to encouragement to fortune hunters. In another case, a widower adopted his youthful housekeeper just before he died. This meant she could share in the man's estate along with his natural children.

But in a court hearing, the children pointed out that the young woman had also been their father's mistress, that he had become mentally infirm, and that she had wielded excessive power over him.

The court thereupon decided the adoption was null and void. The judge said an adult adoption, used as a substitute for a will, should—like a will—be free of undue influence.

MONDAY

"In 'It Takes a Thief' on ABC Mundy meets an old nemesis as he seeks to steal a certain painting.

On "Gunsmoke" for CBS an outlaw holds Kitty, Doc, Festus and Newly as hostages while awaiting arrival of a train with a gold shipment.

Danny Kaye is guest star on "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" for NBC.

The ABC movie is "The Heroes of Telemark," starring Kirk Douglas and Richard Harris in a 1965 film about Norwegian saboteurs in World War II.

NBC's movie is 1966's "Am bush Bay," starring Hugh O'Brian and Mickey Rooney in a tale of Philippines fighting in World War II.

TUESDAY

Godfrey Cambridge and Pat Carroll help out with the comedy on Red Skelton's CBS hour and Jackie De Shannon sings.

ABC screens "Mister Jerico," a new video film with Patrick MacNee, Marty Allen, Connie Stevens and Herbert Lom in the cast. A con man tangles with a crooked millionaire.

NBC preempts the movie period for the two-hour "First Tuesday" news feature program. Among the items are an examination of the career of French mimi Marcel Marceau and a report on Brazil's Stone Age Indian tribes.

The "60 minutes" news feature program on CBS includes a look at the work of a London woman mystic.

WEDNESDAY

Singers Sonny James and Wanda Jackson are guests on "Hee Haw" on CBS.

Comedian Alan King is host on NBC's "Music Hall" with comedian Paul Lynde and singer Michele Lee on the scene.

The "Medical Center" drama on CBS has a married woman tour director falling in love with Dr. Gannon while he's vacationing in Mexico.

Guests of Johnny Cash for ABC include Roger Miller, Pete Seeger and Brenda Lee.

THURSDAY

Tom Smothers is guest star on "Pat Paulsen's Half a Comedy Hour" for CBS.

NBC's Daniel Boone poses as a river pirate to capture a con man who has "sold" Boonesborough to two brothers.

Kaye Stevens and Bob Newhart are guests on the Jim Nabors hour for CBS.

The CBS movie screens 1951's "The African Queen," starring Katharine Hepburn and Humphrey Bogart in a tale of adventure in Africa during World War I.

NBC carries two first-round games of the NCAA championship basketball tourney. "Wonderful World of Golf" is preempted.

"CBS Golf Classic" has a quarter-final match in which Julius Boros and Don January play Al Gelberger and Dave Stockton.

The people we lend money to tell us what to do.

We lend money to farmers and ranchers. Nobody else. And the people who borrow buy stock in PCA. That way, they tell us what to do. They decide who is really going to run our operation.

It's a great arrangement. We end up being owned and operated by the people who need — and use — our service. So we know all about their special money needs. Supplies, equipment, maintenance, extra help, medical bills, educational expenses. And we know how to tailor repayment programs to their production and income.

Denny McClain Earned Reputation As Flake While In Minor League

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Denny McClain began to earn his reputation as a "flake" in 1962 when he was an 18-year old rookie minor leaguer pitching for the Harlan, Ky., club in the Appalachian League and the Clinton, Iowa, club in the Midwest League.

First, Denny created an uproar among hometown fans by calling Harlan "a hick town." Then he caused a furore at Clinton by jumping the team seven times in one month.

"That's a record for the club and the league," he says. Since then Denny has risen to stardom with the Detroit tigers only to become involved in baseball's worst scandal since eight members of the Chicago White Sox were banned for life for allegedly throwing the 1919 World Series to the Cincinnati Reds.

Along the way he has more than lived up to the nickname, "Super Flake," given him by his teammates. It is a term with two meanings. One is that he is a likeable oddball. The other is that he is an arrogant prima donna. Which meaning is intended at any given moment depends upon who is doing the talking.

Insults Teammate
McClain has branded Detroit fans "the world's worst" and said he would rather play the organ than pitch. He readily gave credit to his teammates for "making me" a 30-game winner in 1968 but peevishly insulted Mickey Lolich after the latter starred in the World Series. He has deliberately misled writers "I don't like" but grooved a pitch so Mickey Mantle could hit the 535th home of his career in the New York Yankee star's final at bat in Tiger Stadium.

McClain was asked once what he wanted out of life. "I want to make a $100,000 salary," he said. "I want yachts and huge houses, maybe palaces. I want all the money I can spend and, brother, that's a lot."

On another occasion, Denny was being interviewed by a horde of newsmen and TV broadcasters in the Tigers' clubhouse.

"Don't be humble, Denny," said a teammate. "Just be yourself."

"If I were a writer, I'd like Denny McClain," he confided during another interview. "That's because I'm good copy."

Good Copy
McClain has always been "good copy." As a rookie he claimed he drank 25 bottles of a name brand soda pop every day. As a star he has been easily accessible although at times he refused to talk about baseball and babbled away about his outside interests. At times he can be genuinely funny. At other times he can be a crashing bore.

It was during the 1967 season that Denny said Detroit fans were "the world's worst." He didn't retract the statement, either, when the predictable uproar started and added, "If they'd leave us alone we would win the pennant for them."

When McClain won his 30th game of the 1968 season on Sept. 14, he was the first to give credit to his teammates.

"Any pitcher on the club could have won 30 games with the support the guys gave me," he said. "They usually got me a lot of runs early and when they didn't, they rallied in the late innings."

The Lolich incident revealed Denny at his worst and the Mantle episode showed him at his best.

Lolich, who won 17 games during McClain's 30-victory season, won three games in the World Series while McClain won one and was beaten by the St. Louis Cardinals twice. McClain was making an appearance in Las Vegas, Nev., during the winter when he was asked to compare Lolich and Cardinal star Bob Gibson.

"I wouldn't give you 12 Mickey Lolichs for one Bob Gibson," he said.

Small Crowd
McClain, already a 30-game winner, had a 6-1 lead over the Yankees on Sept. 19, 1968 when Mantle went to bat in the eighth inning. The small crowd of 9,063 thought it might be the last appearance of Mantle's career in Tiger Stadium (it turned out the fans were right) and gave the Yankee star an ovation. Mantle then had a career total of 534 home runs and needed one more to place him third on the all-time list behind only Babe Ruth and Willie Mays.

Mantle had been McClain's boyhood idol. Denny patiently waited for the fans to finish their salute and then nodded to Mantle, then he threw a straight fast ball "right down the pipe" and Mantle hit it into the right field stands for his 535th homer.

McClain admitted after the 1969 season that he wanted to prove the 1968 30-victory season was no "fluke" and that his right arm hurt so much that he had taken eight cortisone shots during the season.

"I wanted to prove to myself that 1968 wasn't just lucky," he said. "Winning 24 games isn't the same as winning 31 no matter how you slice it. But I felt I pitched about as well in 1969 as I did in 1968 and that I proved myself."

But that's only one of the three faces Denny has shown the sports world.

There's also Denny the Flake—the cocky, talkative, controversial Denny liked by some and disliked by others.

And then there is Denny the Fool—the young man who through stupidity or worse has made himself his own worst enemy.

Next: Denny the Fool

Marr, McGowan Lead At Doral

MIAMI (UPI)—Little Davey Marr's 36 years told on him Tuesday when water licked his right knee.

But a University of Miami physician limbered the immobile joint in time for Marr to storm to a 67 in Thursday's opening round of the $150,000 Doral Eastern golf tournament. He shared a two-stroke lead with Jack McGowan.

McGowan and Marr, both members of the tigers' older generation and both mulling about five-year victory droughts, shot 33-34 for five under par.

McGowan, who has not won on the pro tour since the Mountainview (Calif.) Open in 1964, said he had not entered an event since last December's Danny Thomas Open. Replying to a question on what helped him, he said: "Putting it on the shelf, I guess."

Marr's last tournament win was the 1965 PGA. But Thursday he said, "I knew I was going to have a good day" when he birdied the first two holes and "sunk a good putt for a par" on his third.

The tragedy on the day was Doug Ford's 40 on the ninth hole and inadvertently signing the card, sticking him with a 116 and putting him far out of contention for the cut.

In a logjam two strokes back from the leaders were Charles Coody, Brian Barnes, Jim Colbert, Larry Hinson, Dan Sikes and Dave Stockton—all at 69.

Arnold Palmer was grouped with six others four strokes off at one-under-par 71, and defending champion Tom Shaw stayed within reach by putting together 36s for a par 72, with 11 others.

Sam Snead, playing in his first tournament of this year's tour, shot a 73.

Lipuri Faces Big Challenge

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marty Lipuri, current king of America's milers, faces his biggest challenge of the season tonight in the form of a double-barreled assault against him in the 82nd annual Amateur Athletic Union Indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden.

John Mason and John Lawson, owners of the fastest indoor mile time this season, plan to double-team Lipuri and their tactics could produce a race in which three or possibly even four runners finish under the four minute mark.

Prospects of the sub four-minute mile and renewal of the duel between Martin McGrady and Olympian Lee Evans in the 600-yard run are expected to lure the seasons largest indoor track crowd to the Garden as the AAU meet returns to New York after a four-year absence.

Competing with the mile and 600 run for top spectator appeal are the sprints and hurdles.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Paul Richards sees the end of baseball's reserve clause.

He sees a lot of other things, too.

He sees the controversial reserve clause issue winding up in the U.S. Supreme Court two or three years from now and he sees the court doing what it always does, voting 5-4.

Against.

"If it ever gets to the Supreme Court, the reserve clause undoubtedly will be thrown out, and the ball players may not know it but that's going to be a sad day for them," says Richards, the man who runs the baseball operation for the Atlanta Braves.

Owners Will Lose Pride

"When that day comes, the owners won't take that much pride in club ownership any more. Why should they? They're going to have a player only one year and that's a much different proposition than having him for all or most of his career."

"You take a guy like Tom Seaver. With the reserve clause gone, he doesn't have to get three days rest the way he does now. With the reserve clause gone, he'll be in there relieving. You won't have to worry about him for next year. He'll be with somebody else anyway."

"Or take a Larry Dierker. You think he'd be babied along or protected the way he was when he first came to Houston? A lot of things are going to change," Richards reflected, watching the Braves take batting practice.

"We won't be having $15 a day meal money for the players, we'll have a training table instead. We won't be traveling in jet planes, we'll have a Greyhound bus pull up for the shorter trips. There won't be anybody taking care of a ballplayer's bags and carrying them up to his hotel room. He'll have to carry them himself. Now we have surgeons and doctors taking care of all their aches and pains. That'll also be a thing of the past."

Game Depends On Clause
Why does Richards feel all these changes would take place?

Kansas State Wildcats Earn Berth In NCAA With Victory

By United Press International

The Wildcats of Kansas State, ranked 20th in the country, earned a berth in the NCAA Midwest regionals by beating Colorado, 79-69, Thursday night. It marked the ninth Big Eight conference title for Kansas State in 15 years.

Another set of Wildcats, this bunch from Davidson, routed Virginia Military Institute, 72-46, in the opening round of the Southern Conference tournament, the winner of which gains automatic entry into the East regionals.

Texas-El Paso climbed into first place in the Western Athletic Conference by beating Brigham Young, 81-70, while Utah was dropping a 93-74 verdict to New Mexico. Texas-El Paso can clinch the WAC title by beating Utah at home on Saturday.

Jerry Venable scored 31 points as Kansas State registered its 16th consecutive home court success and boosted its overall record to 19-5.

Thirteenth-ranked Davidson raced away to a 36-17 halftime lead against VMI and played most of the second half with reserves. Mike Maloy led the Wildcats attack with 15 points.

Davidson next plays William and Mary, an 82-67 victory over Furman, and in tonight's other Southern Conference semifinal it will be Richmond against George Washington. Richmond upset East Carolina, 75-73, and George Washington edged the Citadel, 66-64, Thursday.

Mike Switzer scored 22 points and Nate Archibald added 17 for Texas-El Paso, which led by only two points at halftime.

New Mexico scored 19 points in a row in the closing minutes of the first half to take a 49-34 lead and Utah was able to do little about it in the second half.

Sixth-ranked Jacksonville and 19-ranked Utah State, both headed for the NCAA, had to

Turns Down Offer

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI)—Argentine heavyweight Oscar Bonavena, hopeful of another crack at world champion Joe Frazier, says he's turned down an offer to meet Jerry Quarry of Los Angeles.

Bonavena met Frazier in 1966 when the Philadelphian held a share of the world heavyweight title and lost a decision. Frazier became undisputed heavyweight king Feb. 16 by stopping Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky.

Houston, the 11th-rated team and also the possessor of an NCAA berth, had an easier time of it in crushing the University of Texas at Arlington, 102-84.

The NCAA bid that goes to the West Coast Athletic Conference champ came no closer to resolve as the University of Pacific and Santa Clara remained deadlocked for the lead. UOP trounced Nevada-Reno, 104-55, while Santa Clara nipped Loyola, 74-70.

Dear Abby

Mother-in-law meant no insult!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Three months ago I scraped enough money together to buy my mother-in-law an electric knife for her birthday. She seemed real pleased with it when I gave it to her.

Yesterday was MY birthday, and guess what she gave me? She gave back the knife I had given to her, saying she didn't have enough money to buy me anything real nice. What do you think of that?

DEAR INSULTED: I think she probably wanted only to give you something as "nice" as what you had given her, and this was her way of reciprocating. If I were you I wouldn't be "insulted." An "insult" is a malicious act. In my opinion, there was no "insult" intended here.

DEAR ABBY: You are right. A woman who thinks she can change a homosexual by marrying him is in for a big disappointment.

There is only one combination which can accomplish that near miracle—the homosexual himself with the help of an expert psychiatrist. I know this is so because I struggled with homosexuality for years before I was "cured." I am now married to a fine woman who knew about my problem, and I am living a full, normal, healthy life.

I am not saying that everyone can do what I did. It takes time, patience, and money. But for me, it was well worth it.

DEAR FATHER: I am pleased to have your testimony (and there were others) because according to my mail, there are very few "cures." I, too, believe it is possible, but only if the person himself desires it. And no amount of pressure from friends, family, or society will help if the person himself doesn't sincerely want to change.

DEAR ABBY: I am still seething as a result of our annual family gathering over the holidays.

My son was home from college with a beard and his hair was a little long, but not shoulder length. He is neat and clean and is a good student, works part time, and we are proud of him.

We were greeted at my sister's door by her two teen-aged, mini-skirted daughters. All during the day, remarks were being made about my "hippie" son, and the conversation kept going back to the "long-haired irresponsible youth."

I don't think it is any more reasonable to link bearded students with hippies than it would be to consider all mini-skirted girls as street walkers or prostitutes, and this is what I said. Was I out of line?

DEAR P. A.: No. And I hope you said it clearly enough so that those who needed to hear it did.

DEAR ABBY: Noble try, Abby. Trying to speak out FOR little Sweden and sex education in our public schools, but it won't work.

I predict that the John Birchers will advise you that statistics from the World Health organization are "not reliable" since it is controlled by the United Nations, and the U. N. is controlled by the Communists, and the Communists are trying to destroy us by pretending that sex is enjoyable and desirable.

Perhaps my sarcasm is not quite sharp enough for the knot-heads, so I had better explain that as far as I know, storks are responsible only for baby storks. Signed,

A MIDDLE-AGED PROFESSIONAL MAN

Ironing Blends

What iron temperature is best for blend fabrics?

Set controls for the most delicate fabric in the blend.

If in doubt, set controls low and gradually increase heat.

Even at low temperatures, ironing blended fabrics is easier with spray sizing.

Sizing sprayed on garments as you iron helps iron glide over fabrics. Yet, because it can be used with cooler irons, it is safe for newest blends and synthetics.

"Charm Schools" Planned In Area, Extension Service

The University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service will present area "Charm Schools", Friday, March 13, in Paducah at the Extension Service Assembly Rooms of the McCracken County Courthouse and Saturday, March 14, in Mayfield at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall from 9:30-12:30. "Physical Fitness" Subject Of Training Lesson For County Homemakers

The Homemakers Training James Puckett; North Murray—meeting on Physical Fitness was Mrs. Charlie Crawford and Mrs. held at the Calloway County Extension Office on Wednesday, February 25 at 10:00 a.m. The lesson was taught by Mrs. Estelle Heuer; Pottersville—Mrs. Carrie Cole and Mrs. Lou letta Wraether; Calloway County, Miss Everett, County Extension Agent in Foods and Nutrition from Marshall County.

Miss Everett said that in order for one to feel well and maintain good health one must eat the basic foods for maintaining the body, but not overeat. The "Basic 4" are:

Milk and Milk Products — Children under 9 — 2 to 3 cups per day, Children 9-12 — 3 or more cups, Teenagers — 4 or more cups, Adults — 2 or more, Pregnant Women — 3 or more, Nursing Mothers — 4 or more cups per day. Cheese can be used for part of the milk.

Meat Group: Count as a serving 2 or 3 ounces of cooked lean meat, poultry or fish—such as a hamburger, a chicken leg, or a fish. Also 2 eggs, or 1 cup cooked dry beans or peas or 4 tablespoons peanut butter.

Vegetable — fruit group — Count as a serving ½ cup raw or cooked or 1 portion such as a banana, a potato, or grapefruit.

Bread — cereal Group — Count as a serving 1 slice of bread or 1 biscuit, or 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal, or ½ cup to ¾ cup cooked cereal, corn meal, grits, macaroni, rice or spaghetti.

Everyone should have some of the Milk Group, at least 2 or more servings of the Meat Group, 4 or more servings of the Vegetable-fruit group, and 4 or more servings of the bread-cereal group. Also eat other foods as needed to round out the meals.

To be physically fit one must get proper nutrition, adequate rest, and relaxation, good health practices, proper medical and dental care and physical activity, known as Exercise!

Eight Local Women Initiated In Kappa Delta Sorority

Delta Iota Chapter of Kappa Delta Sorority at Murray State University initiated seven new members and eight honor initiates on February 20.

Those who were initiated include Jan Bittenbeck, Louisville; Pam Caudill, Marion; Debbie Guffy, La Center; Debbie Homra, Fulton; Cathy Hyland, Fulton; Jane Matthews, Owensboro; Jeanne Riley, Owensboro.

Honor initiates were Mrs. Morris Baucum, Mrs. Max Carman, Mrs. William Fandrich, Mrs. Eddie Farmer, Mrs. Eugene Hurn, Mrs. David Lanier, Mrs. James M. Lassiter, and Mrs. James Weatherly, all of Murray.

Cathy Hyland was chosen as the "Ideal Pledge" and Pam Caudill was chosen for the "Pledge High Scholarship Award". Lou Kimble was given the "White Rose Award" for ideal collegiate elected by the pledges. Carol Aycock received special recognition for pledges. Carol Aycock received special recognition for pledge education.

Gifts were presented to the honor initiates at a banquet in honor of the new members held at Paris Landing Inn on February 22.

Evening pants for spring are softer, less obvious and have taken their proper place. The focus is on long floaty overshirts or sheer mid-chemises worn over them.

Aviation Outlook

By Jon R. Pierce

There is an airplane in your future. Whether you are one of the more than one hundred million Americans who has never flown or are one of the less than ten million travelers who accounts for 80 percent of all air travel, the odds are that in the 1970's you will find yourself flying for pleasure, profit, or convenience. You may find yourself flying the Atlantic in a new jumbo jet or piloting a rented light plane in the local airport traffic pattern. Both are vital components of aviation, commercial aviation in the first case, general aviation in the second place.

Not all those you see in a large commercial airport terminal building are taking a trip but all are being served by aviation. The businessman on his way to or from a distant appointment, the returning serviceman being welcomed by a whole clan, proud grandparents afforded the opportunity of seeing an addition to their growing family, the honeymooners, the worried son or daughter hurrying to the bedside of a loved one who is ill. All these, travelers or not, learn that aviation can serve when and as needed.

At the local general aviation airport on a sunny afternoon the parking lot is full and the fences are lined with interested observers. Not all these people are fliers but many of them would like to be. Those fortunate enough to slip the bonds of gravity and climb into the blue earn the admiration and envy of the earthbound onlookers. Fence hanging is one way of comparing one's self with those who are already flying.

Some of the good and valid reasons why people fly have already been mentioned. More important are the reasons why people do not fly. These last, are usually based on outdated or erroneous facts and should be refuted.

First and foremost, safety. Despite wide notice given to aviation accidents, flying is safe. Commercial aviation is safe. General aviation is safe. You are as safe in an airliner or in a light plane as you are on your job. You are safer than you are in the family automobile, the family boat, or even in the family bathtub. If you feel safe enough to get out of bed in the morning, you have nothing to fear from flying.

Second and very important, money. No longer is it necessary to be independently wealthy to fly the Atlantic or to spend the week-end with distant relatives. Round trip commercial flights from New York to Athens, Greece can be had for less than $500.00. Chartered commercial fares for groups are even less. A two passenger, 120 mile per hour light plane can be rented as easily as a car for less than $15.00 per hour. Flying schools offer a complete solo course for under $200.00, a private license course for under $800.00. Flying is a bargain and the world is full of bargain hunters.

Third is manipulation of time. The more involved and hectic our lives become, the greater are the demands on our time. Aviation enables us to take the children to see their grandparents on a weekend rather than having to wait for holidays and vacations. Aviation lets the midwestern couple tour Europe on a two or three week vacation. Aviation lets an executive function effectively in five cities in a week instead of two or three. Aviation is a time expander waiting to serve you.

Patent medicine commercials once urged you to rush right out and pick up the product. Aviation makes no such pitch. It isn't necessary. If you will maintain an open mind about flying, the excuse or opportunity will present itself for your consideration. Then all you need to do is give aviation a chance.

Happy landings!

LIMIT YOUR KILL

Don't Kill Your Limit

Kentucky Fisherman's Paradise

FRANKFORT, Ky. — A child shopping for candy will take considerable time before he makes up his mind about what he wants. He knows it's all good but he wants to come up with the very best — the very tastiest of the lot.

The Kentucky fisherman is much like the child shopping for candy. There's so much water to fish it is difficult to come up with the most satisfying answer. But it is a healthy dilemma in which he finds himself.

The reason is simple — Kentucky, as most everyone knows, has more miles of running water than any other state except Alaska. It is estimated that running, fishable water in Kentucky streams run over 13,000 miles. And then, if interested in close-to-home fishing, he has myriad farm ponds from which to choose. They are literally thousands of such ponds, properly stocked and producing fish, within the borders of Kentucky. It boils down to the fact that there are several choices to be made within each county.

If the fisherman seeks the larger waters he is particularly blessed and is becoming "more blessed" every year. Since the first major lake was impounded in Kentucky in the early twenties (Herrington Lake) 12 others of

Boating

By JACK WOLISTON

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 60th edition of the National Boat Show opens in the New York Coliseum on Saturday, Jan. 24 and a major portion of an expected 400,000 visitors during the nine-day event probably will center their attention on the houseboat display.

The houseboat popularity wave in recent years has amazed the recreational boating industry. While boat sales in general have shown a healthy growth rate of approximately 10 per cent a year, orders for new houseboats have been increasing at an annual rate of about 40 per cent.

For the first time in history, the queen of the big New York show is a houseboat — Cargile's 47-foot Leisureliner, a sleek fiberglass craft that has a starting price of about $21,200, with 225 horsepower stern drives and a long list of luxury equipment.

Complementing the queen are several dozen other of these homes-away-from-home, some of them designed so much with an eye toward speed and stability that they are difficult to distinguish from high speed cruisers.

The hulls on these luxury craft are as far away from the shack-on-a-raft type of houseboats of a decade ago as the United States was then from the moon. Among the Show's 1970 fleet are hulls of deep-vee design, modified vee, cathedral and even variations of the tunnel hull, all aimed at providing speed, stability and comfort underway.

And they have power, some taking up to 325 horsepower in twin stern drive installations.

And for the man who doesn't want to stay on the water all the time there's the trailerable houseboat, which doubles as a camper on land. Principal feature of these boats is a narrower beam — usually about eight feet — which eliminates wide load highway hazards. They are easily launched in shallow water and handle like cruisers when underway.

All the 1970 models are true luxury craft, with some fineries including such things as wet bars, stereo, television, air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, lush staterooms, freezers, even automatic washing machines.

What do they cost? Prices range from $6,000 to over $50,000, depending upon options.

If those prices are out of range, there's always the outboard-powered floating platform with canopy cover selling for about $1,500.

KENTUCKY WILDLIFE

BY DR. ROGER W. BARBOUR, UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

The Ring-Necked Snake

One of the most handsome of our little snakes is the much misunderstood ring-necked snake, Diadophis amabilis. A surprising number of Kentuckians have the completely mistaken impression that the ring-necked snake is the young of the black racer.

The ring-neck is surely one of the easiest of our snakes to identify. The dorsal coloration is usually slaty-blue, but is somewhat variable. The belly is bright yellow or yellow-orange. In specimens from eastern Kentucky it is usually unspotted, but most specimens from western Kentucky have the belly heavily spotted with black. There is a conspicuous yellow or orange ring around the neck, hence the name. They attain a length of up to 22 inches, but seldom is one over 18 inches encountered. They are quite docile, and rarely attempt to bite, even when first handled. I have handled hundreds, and have been bitten by only two. The bite, of course, is completely painless; they cannot even break the skin.

A ring-necked snake from Bell county.

Distribution of the ring-necked snake in the United States.

The ring-necked snake is a woodland species; rarely is one found more than a few yards from the woods. They are highly secretive, and apparently rarely emerge from hiding. They are usually found beneath rocks, logs, stumps, or slabs, and sometimes beneath the loose bark of standing or down dead trees. A favored hiding place in spring is beneath a large flat stone on the sunny steep slope of a road cut in a wooded area. On many occasions I have pointed out such a stone and directed a student to fetch me the ring-necked snake from beneath it. Often I am in error, but no harm is done, and the episode is soon forgotten. Frequently, however, there is really a ring-neck under the stone, and the tale grows bigger with each telling by the students.

is no great chore to find a dozen or so on any summer day in selected spots.

The females reach sexual maturity when about 12½ inches long, and lay one clutch of eggs per year. The number of eggs per clutch varies from 2 to 6, with 3 the average; larger females lay more eggs. On Big Black Mountain, in Harlan county, eggs are laid in late June and early July. The eggs are white, leathery-shelled, and elongate, roughly 5/16 by 1 inch. They are laid in a moist site, as a rotten log or stump, or in loose soil. They hatch in August or September, and the youngsters at hatching are about 5 inches long and look just like miniature adults.

Food consists of almost any animal they can capture, subdue, and swallow, ranging from worms and insects to the smaller vertebrates, as salamanders, frogs, lizards, and occasionally other snakes.

DEAR SIR:
"You Ails" and "You Guys" Blend Wonderfully Well
When Kentuckians and Out-Of-Staters Meet Over
A Cup Of Coffee At a Favorite Camping Ground

Dear Harry,

I've been traveling the Bluegrass this last month, and have again encountered the camper-trailer vagabonds who have infiltrated most areas of Kentucky.

If general statements are in order, I would like to present one at this time: Touring campers, Kentuckians and out-of-staters, are without exception the friendliest and most cordial persons I have met while traveling the Commonwealth.

Conversation — both good and bad camping experiences — and a cup of coffee are always provided. And if time permits, there is always enough food for a visitor.

"You ails" and "you guys" are exchanged with little more than an expected grin. Stories of breakdowns and wash-outs are always humorous when told about a month later.

The tribulations, however, never seem to deter the adventurous. The call of the campfire lures them back the following weekend, a little wiser in the ways of the woodsman.

There is one social blunder that cannot be forgiven. Should you, in over zealous conversation, refer to a vehicle that is pulled behind a truck or car as a camper or if you should call a dwelling that rests on the back of a truck, a trailer, don't wait for a cup of coffee. There are some things that everyone knows.

It takes but a few hours to find that there are two distinct groups of campers. The "purists" or "tent dwellers" are convinced that one might as well stay at home if it brings all of the conveniences of man along on an outing. Such an array of appliances, he reasons, defeats the camper's purpose — to commune with nature.

In the other camp are those who prefer to travel in a more comfortable manner. They maintain that when the forces of nature prevail one should have access to some of man's reposeful facilities.

Harry, I just wanted you to know that I am interested in such pursuits. If there are any old tent stakes around, your house just sent them over.

Before I get hung up on camping, I want to fill you in on my latest fishing fiasco. An unofficial spot check around the office indicates that I may have a modern-day Kentucky casting record. Fishing exclusively for large-mouth bass during a two-day period, I casted with an open face reel between 2,700 and 3,000 times without catching a single bass. Weather and lake conditions should not enter into the judgment since others fishing at the same time, in the same waters did string bass. So, it would appear to be an indisputable perseverance record. Wouldn't you think? People in the area were also dazzled by my intricate sculling maneuvers.

I don't believe I mentioned it when we talked before, but I think you should know that I have signed up for a course in bird and animal photography. The assignment of photography has led me to the bedsides of swans, geese, and buffalo (really). I thought it would be good if I could help, although they seemed to have done all right without me to this point.

Well, Harry, that's about all the news I have. I'll send you some fireworks for the 4th.

Sincerely,
Tod

NAGEL FOUND DEAD A leading star of the silent screen and early talkies, Conrad Nagel, 72, was found dead in his Manhattan, New York, apartment. Born in Keokuk, Iowa, Nagel was a founder of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. He was married three times, each ending in divorce, and is survived by a son and daughter.

More than 1,000 Japanese and foreign newsmen have applied for press accreditation cards for Expo '70.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The fight against inflation is going badly, as indicated by the news, but the stock market seems to have already discounted the pessimism engendered by this news, Spear & Staff says. The market has been gradually edging higher on steadily increasing volume, the firm says, but the tangible monetary developments awaited by Wall Street now appear to be "somewhat further away than anticipated."

If the money markets become "disenchanted with the prospect of an imminent change in policy," Standard & Poor's says, the latest rally could undergo a correction. Nevertheless, chances have improved that a basing process has started. The firm suggests accumulating undervalued issues with a part of reserves.

The market has been gathering technical strength over the past few weeks even though the averages have been able to score only limited gains, E.F. Hutton Inc. says. Improved showing in the advance-decline figures is one sign of this, the firm says. Other signs are more favorable volume statistics, better readings in the high-low figures and odd-lot data, and a more robust performance by the transportation and utility indexes.

The bond market can continue to improve gradually, as long as new issues are realistically priced to sell, Goodbody & Co. believes. However, the firm says, "over-enthusiasm on the part of dealers along with a lack of any real move to ease credit could very well precipitate profit-taking and stem the current price rally."

Program In Kentucky Unshackles Mentally Ill With Strong And Ambitious Program

By BILL WOODRASKA
FRANKFORT, Ky. — "We've shackled and executed our mentally ill. We've isolated and ostracized them. We've feared them and disdained them. We've tried to make them invisible."

So says Dr. Hale H. Farabee, psychiatrist-commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mental Health.

Farabee is an evangelist — a zealot — and in his search for a new method of making services available to mentally ill people, the retarded, the alcoholic and their families, Dr. Farabee has given his identity to the sprawling but closely-knit system of care that is Kentucky's second largest department of state government.

When you talk with him, two words keep cropping up: "coordination" and "accessibility."

"As a state agency, we couldn't possibly hope to meet the demand for services on our own, working out of Frankfort," he says. "For a hundred years and more the hospitals provided the bare minimum—custodial care. In 1950 there were 7,500 patients in four psychiatric hospitals—and only 19 physicians. That was Kentucky's mental health program."

"Now the function of our department is as much to stimulate development of local programs as to provide direct services."

Perhaps Farabee's philosophy of local care was set in 1962, when he was the only psychiatrist in 47 mountain counties in Eastern Kentucky. He saw then how little the state could do for emotionally ill and mentally retarded people in non-metropolitan areas.

When he was appointed Commissioner in 1965, "the time was ripe," he says. "The federal and state governments were just then setting into motion the machinery for a much improved system. And it was up to us to learn to run the machine."

The Kentucky Mental Health Planning Commission set up the guidelines and now, four years later, 21 comprehensive community mental health centers are operating in the state, bringing close-to-home care to some 15,000 Kentuckians. Three more centers are on the way to make Kentucky the first state in the nation to offer such community services to its entire population.

"The key to this whole idea of community mental health care is accessibility," Farabee says. "I remember one case in which I talked to the mother of a mountain family. I told her that her little girl had to have help and that the only place she could get it was Lexington. The next day I saw them, mother and little girl, standing on the road trying to hitch hike to Lexington."

"Now, center in each community has psychiatrists, psychology, social workers and other mental health professionals where there were none before—in Prestonsburg and Harlan, in Glasgow and Somerset and 17 other cities and towns."

The centers are operated by boards of citizens from the region and funded by federal, state and local monies. Their programs of mental health and mental retardation services are tailored to local needs.

The regional mental health-retardation boards also have a hand in funding some 60 day-care training units for Kentucky's retarded pre-schoolers and the growing program of sheltered workshops for retarded adults.

The Department of Mental Health offers technical and financial assistance to these programs in cooperation with the Department of Education's Bureau of Rehabilitation.

Farabee says that as many as a third of the people who are now getting help for family problems, anxieties, depression, alcoholism and other mental health problems would be in state hospitals if care was not available at the community centers.

A considerable portion of the commissioner's time on the job is spent overseeing the operations of the state's four psychiatric hospitals and two hospitals and schools for the mentally retarded.

The psychiatric hospitals are now fully accredited for the first time in their history, a result of the department's drive toward top-quality psychiatric care for the patients for whom it is responsible.

The Department is now accelerating its program of discharge and home placement for many elderly and other nonmentally ill persons in the hospitals.

"As a physician, I am very concerned that the non-mentally ill, aged and physically infirm receive the best of care," Dr. Farabee says.

"But as a mental health commissioner, charged by law with direct treatment of the mentally ill, I know that the increasing demand for treatment of the acutely mentally ill requires the full mobilization of our staff and resources."

The retardation facilities are actively working toward their goal of continuing treatment and training to help residents reach their highest level of potential.

A major concern now is planning for the new mental retardation facility at Somerset, to open its doors for its first residents in 1971. Gov. Louie B. Nunn included $9 million for the project in his administration's first two-year budget.

The co-ordination and flexible interaction of hospital and community mental health programs is a challenge for Dr. Farabee and his staff.

"Co-ordination of services is what makes our program a system of care, a system that eliminates waste and duplication and fills the huge gaps left by the earlier catch-as-catch-can method of delivering services," he says.

Ideally, a person with several mental problems—say a suicidal depression—would first be seen by mental health professionals at the center nearest this home for emergency treatment. Then, if he requires a period of intensive state hospital treatment, the hospital would admit him, and follow up on that initial help he had received at the center.

After hospital treatment—the average stay in the hospital for new admission is now about 10 weeks—he would be discharged, with treatment records, and the community center or family physician would pick up where the hospital left off.

The person who is picked up by the center would be seen as an outpatient, perhaps with his family involved in the course of therapy. In cases where only short-term hospitalization is required, more than 50 community hospitals throughout Kentucky might be used—as affiliates of the local mental health care.

All this is a complex job of organization and co-ordination. "This is known as good continuity of care," Farabee says. "The idea is to have the facilities and personnel in the right places to give the person the right kind of help in the right doses at just the right time during the course of the illness."

People are finally beginning to look upon mental illness in the same way they view physical illness, and now they can expect to get help in the same kind of way. We won't see so many cases, now that the community centers are seeing people early, where the illness has progressed to the point that hospitalization for an indefinite period—maybe the rest of the person's life—is the only answer.

"In addition to the humanitarian element here, the economy to the state in savings on costs of long term hospitalization and in the earnings—and tax-paying—capacity of the patient is enormous."

Model mental health legislation to streamline hospital admission procedures, protect patients' civil rights and eliminate archaic language in the laws—such terms as "pauper idiot"—was a recent major addition to hospital improvement and patient care programs.

In addition to the divisions which operate the hospitals and assist communities with their centers and programs for the retarded, Dr. Farabee's department has offices for problems of alcoholism, drug education, prevention of mental illness and retardation through mental health education, research and planning, children's and volunteer services and staff training and development, a vital concern in this highly specialized area of care.

Kiwanis Club Hears Reports From Phil Shelton At Meeting

Phil Shelton, president of the Murray Education Association, explained the four point KEA program at the regular meeting of the Murray Kiwanis Club last night at the Murray Woman's Clubhouse.

Shelton challenged the club members to show their support of Murray teachers by attending Public Relations Day at all city schools Friday.

He explained that the cost of living adjustment was the least important issue to the local teachers. He cited the desperate need and urgency for the vocational school and a new Murray High School building and adequate facilities.

The program chairman, Maurice Humphrey, showed a film entitled "Urban Sprawl." This brought out the problems caused by the random urban development that is taking place in our country. Among these problems are pollution and the speeding up of run-off of rainfall causing flooding, erosion and siltation. It also presented a new idea of urban development being tried in the Brandywine Watershed near Philadelphia.

President Tom Turner presided at both the meeting and a board meeting following. Arlie Scott read his report to Kiwanis International on progress made by this club in the drug alert program.

John Keene had as his guest his father, Joe Keene of Boston, Mass. Mark Slaught and Jim Taylor were guests from Circle K.

Forest fire detection by satellite predicted MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Forest fire detection by means of satellites is predicted by an engineer for an automation firm.

"A worldwide forest fire detection and alarm system using satellites could save tens of millions of dollars annually," according to Lincoln H. Hudson, of Honeywell's Aerospace Division.

He said satellites can also detect underground water supplies, check flood dangers, and determine amount of pollution.

Woman's Death Ruled Accidental

BENTON, Ky., Feb. 26 — The death of a Michigan woman near Palma Tuesday was a result of carbon monoxide poisoning, according to Marshall County Coroner Jess Collier.

Collier today said the cause of Mrs. George Reed's death was determined by an autopsy which was performed here Wednesday. The time of her death was set at 6 a.m. Tuesday, Collier said.

He said he would write a verdict of accidental death in the case and would not hold an inquest.

The body of Mrs. Reed, 41, was discovered in a trailer at Palma by her brother-in-law, Cecil Reed of Paducah, about noon Tuesday.

Discovered in the trailer with Mrs. Reed was Mrs. Laura Mae Burden of Paducah, Mr. Reed's aunt. Her condition was listed as serious at Benton Municipal Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed had moved their trailer to Palma from Michigan. Mr. Reed had returned to Michigan for more of their belongings, authorities said.

Funeral services will be held at Girschbach Funeral Home Saturday in River Rouge, Mich. Burial will be in Michigan Memory Gardens at Flat Rock.

The body was sent to Michigan today from Filbeck and Cann Funeral Home.

Crime in streets hits ghetto hardest

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Crime in the streets hits ghetto dwellers at least 100 times harder than it afflicts middle class whites living in the suburbs, contends a nationally prominent Stanford University expert in criminal law.

During the past year, one out of 70 ghetto dwellers became the prey of a young mugger, assailant or rapist, Prof. Herbert L. Packer reports. In the population as a whole, one in 10,000 was similarly victimized.
